

INTRO

This is a conventional serial communications program for windows. When starting the program you must select the communication port you want to use and the operation is chat type.

STARTING UP

This is a very simple program since once installed you can start using it. When starting the General program for the first time, a configuration file can be modified manually to expand the default options.